'Opening Doors Enriching Lives'

Poems by Darcy Price

Sweets

love sweets I love eating them on my seat.

Nothing can ever beat.

Tell me to stop eating sweets the answer is never.

I have a box of sweets.

I also love wheat.

But before I eat my sweets I put my socks on.

But my socks are gone.

School

School, School, School is so cool sometimes you get to go to a swimming pool,

When you have to say bye, its like you're going to die,

Can't lie,

Sometimes the cooks bake you a cake to take to eat,

No one can beat,

School is so much fun,

They let you play on a bike its like you're on a hike,

They have lots of friendly teachers,

In math's, they make you laugh,

Go to Tanfield Lea Primary School,

And you'll have lots of fun.

Tanfield Lionesses by Hollie Watson

Summer edition (April 2023)

NEWSFLASH! The girls have succeeded in the Vision Cup, trouncing every other team (Brandon and Langley View). We played many games, winning all of them at least 5 -0! AND as an AMAZING bonus, Sophia (our goal-keeper) conceded no goals; it was a clean sheet! So, you know how our kit was DISGUSTING? Well, we got a new kit! It is a lovely dark purple and the keeper kit is a vibrant yellow. It is a very soft nylon and, in my opinion, the best strip for a school! Everyone on the team would like to say a huge thank you to Kevin and Catherine Embleton from CONCEPT IT for supplying us with the new kits. We love them so much and we will wear them with pride.

SpongeBob rap song by Torie Smithson

I was minding my own business jelly fishing.
 There was this bully right.
 Didn't even seem like the bully type.
 Walked right up to me and said "You look like a cookie bite, "
 I say you could be right but me I'm not the lucky type.
 So, I walked away and hit me with a cookie knife.
 Sheesh did I tell you could walk away sponge I responded "No, "and he hit me with a punch.
 All up on my face yeah then I lost my patience.
 So, I turned around and whipped out two of my ray guns.
 He said "Oh no no no no," then he tried to run away .
 I said "Oh no no you messed up my day, "
 Then he ran away.

The day SpongeBob died by Romola Graham

Once upon a time, on a cold day in Tanfield lea, Mr. Patterson was walking down the street when he bashed into Mr. Temple. He collapsed into a depressed heap on the floor and began to sob into his Sponge bob teddy, whom he had named Mr. Temple. When he finally calmed down they were both 10 minutes late for school. Mr. Temple had a fit and hit into Mr. Patterson, broke his leg and also collapsed into a depressed heap next to his colleague. After a few hours in the hospital they both hobbled to school;

ONLY TO FIND SOMETHING HORRIBLE HAD HAPPENED!!!!!!

The school had been flooded! This is what had happened:

It was finally lunch time, and Mr. McIntosh was starving. He realised with horror that he had forgotten to bring his packed lunch. So, with a heavy heart, he had to reluctantly trudge down to the hall. But when he saw what was for dinner he completely flipped! It was his favourite- baby food!

And for dessert- ice cream!!!! He grabbed his baby food and baby bottle and slurped them with gusto! Then as he reached a hand out for the ice cream... Romola Graham was so rudely in front of him. She grabbed the last double choc chip, leaving him with the nefarious, maliciously evil..... mint flavour! Of course, being the sensible man he was, he immediately had a mental breakdown. He cried so much, it submerged the school. As the year six teachers finally recovered from the incident on the street, they were washed away by the huge wave. Mr. Temple (the real one) was tragically swept away. Miss. Hemmings ran frantically up to Mr. Patterson and said "Mr. temple is dead!"

For a moment Mr. Patterson was stunned. Then he came together. "Noooooo" he wailed "He was my life best friend he sobbed. Then he noticed Mr. Sponge bob Temple lying on the floor. No he isn't Mr. Patterson exclaimed. "Oh no" Miss. Hemmings exclaimed. "Not that one. The real one" "AAH" Mr. Patterson sighed. "Good."

"Good?" Miss Hemmings asked incredulously

"Oh yeah." Mr. Patterson explained. "I didn't care about that old man!"

Interview with Mr. Ashman By Hollie W and Hannah H

What is your favourite sport to teach and why?

A. Gymnastics because I like seeing people improve doing things like in the first week of doing it they say "I can't do it "but by the 6th week of doing it they can do it!

Q. Why did you choose to be a P.E. teacher in a school?

A. I wanted to be a P.E teacher because I love sport and teaching children that and passing on my skills is amazing.

Q. What is your favourite colour?

Probably red, because I love SUNDERLAND!!

Q. What is your favourite sport and why?

A. Football because it is the only sport I can get into outside of doing sport in school. Plus, I just love football!

Interview with Miss Hemmings

Q. Why did you want to be a headteacher?

A. Well, I hadn't really thought. It wasn't my first thought when I wanted a job. I worked in Canada for a year and the headteacher that ran the school I was working in said it was time for me to find a new job and branch out. I got a new job, the deputy head of this school actually! 6 months into my job, the head teacher fell ill and so, because I was the deputy head, I stood in for him. At first, I was super scared until I got used to it. Then, he told me that he was too ill to come back into school ever again. So, the job came out and I applied for the job. And I got the job! From then on, I became the head and I loved it!

Q. What is your favourite colour?

A. Probably, I have got to say, dark purple.

Q. What is the best part of being a head teacher?

A. I love making a difference to this school. Also, I love seeing the best in children and I like making it a nice place for all of the staff and children to be in. I also love seeing people achieve things that they thought that they couldn't do.

Q. How long have you worked here?

A. Miss Hemmings has worked here for a long long time (25 years) .

The escape from London by Hollie Watson

Hi, I am Martha Edwards and I am an evac-uee from London. My mum is working in a factory making spitfires for the English troops and my dad is fighting for London and our lives. Oh, and I should probably mention that world war 2 has taken over the majority of the world (63 countries) because of Germany. Hitler. Adolf Hitler. Leader of the Nazi party. He hated the Jews and that's why he started of this. To put it (a little bit) nicer, it's like a human swatting a fly. Its awful. I found out my best friend, Kate, has lost her life. It was so sad but from that day onwards I made a promise to myself. To never cry again, to never gave misery in my life.

While I write this, I am hiding in an alleyway between what remains of royal albert hall and a bank. Soldiers are trooping the streets all the time and there is a constant clacking sound of the soldier's hobnail boots on the cobblestone road. All of the buildings have blackouts on their windows and German air-ships (Zeppelin) are hovering in the air like a devil looking over us. All of a sudden, a BANG erupted and sent albert hall crashing to the ground. Piles and piles of rubble and dust were on my legs and I could feel they were going to be hurt or even unfunctional! I shoved away as much of the stone away as I could and, when I got up, I ran. For my life. Day after day after day. I ran until I got to the border of London. I sat on a hill as I looked out over London, bombs and guns cracking on the horizon. I lay down and attempted to get a wink of sleep.

That was until I heard a bang. The ground shook and a cacophony of screams rang out through the city streets. I woke startled and I looked out over London; Germany had set off gun shots and England had fought back. Although it is dangerous, I feel like I should go and fight.

I know, you're probably thinking 'Martha, are you out of your mind?' but I want to protect my turf or else all of the citizens will be homeless. So, I went down the hill and I tried to find a dead soldier's uniform. Fortunately, a soldier just a size bigger than m had his uniform on which I had to force onto myself my brain was saying not to but, my stomach was saying I should. So, I did. at least he had a gun filled with ammo! Once everything was on I knew this was it. I walked to the battlefield and I hurried to the trenches; soon, somehow, out of the corner of my eye, I could see a faint glow. Then, I looked over and noticed it was my friend Daisy!

With tears in my eyes, I hurtled towards her and wrapped my arms around her. I've never felt so happy to see someone in my life! She told me, "I saw you coming towards me! But you know how this war is destroying London? Well, I have a plan!" I gestured a yes with my hands.

"We're escaping the country!" she said with wide eyes. I just thought that I may as well go with her so we are safe.

"Fine. Tonight, meet me at that hill." –

That night, I met daisy at the top of the hill. We both had a suitcase full of our belongings. We waited until we saw a cargo ship come into the bay. When (eventually) the ship came, we scrambled aboard and hid like we were spies. We were safe. For now.

Book and Movie Reviews By Jessica P and Jorgie S

Books:

Dork Diaries (We interviewed Autumn M):

We think 8 stars but Autumn thinks 9.5. Its okay to have mixed feeling about something though which is good! It has very good pictures drawn by Rachel Renee Russel. There is lots of drama to read which is good plus they get you lots of minutes. They're about a 4.9 on accelerated reader. Autumn thinks the bad part is that there is too may characters on one page.

Diary of a wimpy kid (we interviewed Cameron A):

We think 10 stars but Cameron thinks -20 stars because of Rodrick! This is because he is annoying and ugly. We recommend reading this plus it gets you loads of reading minutes. Cameron's favourite thing about this book is the fights in the book and his least favourite thing is Rodrick because he is a "geeza".

Goodnight Mr Tom (we interviewed Mr Temple):

We think 2 stars because it is really boring and not much happens. We do not recommend reading this though. Mr Temple thinks that it should be 8 stars for an adult to read. But for children, he thought 6 stars because children lose interest. But he does like how the bond is between Mr Tom and Willie grows overtime because it is very sweet.

Movies:

Harry Potter and the Philosopher's stone (we interviewed Hollie W):

We think 6 stars but Hollie thinks 9 also, we think it is a really good movie but not as good as the others because it is a very long movie. We recommend watching this movie when you have lots of spare time. Hollie said it was a clever idea of making these movies because it includes lots of unique things such as: quidditch, potion making and learning witchcraft.

Mr Stink (we interviewed Mr Patterson):

We rate Mr Stink 8 stars and Mr Patterson rates it the same as us. He likes it because it is funny and he thinks everyone enjoys it in year 6. We think there is nothing bad about this book and so does Mr Patterson. We also like it because of its jolly Christmas theme. We recommend reading this book.

Shrek (we interviewed Willow H):

We think 10 stars because it has humour and it is really great for little children because many children laugh at "GET OOT ME SWAMP"! Willow thinks this movie is good because she likes how they make Fiona a human and a monster. She also thinks, that Shrek is cute because she likes green. Willow wants to be in Fiona's shoes so she could be with Shrek. This is why Willow rates it a 20 stars.

The Princess Of The Underworld Gone Good by Lily Elwen

There once lived a young girl, not an ordinary girl. She was not born with abilities like her father. Although, that never stopped her from creating mischief. She also had a pet, a Cerberus named Ressie. The princess did not have a name until one day she asked her father, Hades, if she could visit the Overworld. "Father, can I go to the Overworld?" asked Hades' daughter, "My clueless daughter, you are not yet ready to wreak havoc on the Overworld, you still have yet to develop your powers!". Hades growled.

"Ugh. Fine!" she said, clearly bothered by it. "Please do not do anything irrational or against my will." the God mentioned. "Pfft. Ill show him powers. He thinks I'm so weak!" she muttered while walking away angrily.

An hour after, and the girl is still resentful. She then decides that she will steal her Father's Great Bident and use it to give herself her abilities she had been waiting so patiently for. The princess woke up at midnight and crept through the fire-lit halls of hell. The young girl did not want to get caught or Hades would not hesitate to send her to the Volcano of Blaze and Inferno. She reached the chamber where the bident is guarded by the Godzilla Fire Cerberus. Luckily, the two had a great bond and he let her use the Bident and warned her of the great consequences of disobeying the God of the Underworld.

"Beware, my young apprentice for there are greater punishments than the Volcano Of Blaze and Inferno. You shall have to be aware, careful and very vigilant. Farewell!" The Cerberus explained.

Later, she decided to call herself Apprentice in the honour of her great and one of her only friends. Apprentice too the Bident and created a sphere (she didn't know how she to control it). Her father taught her how to a millennium ago but she did not learn to control it. Apprentice touched the sphere and she immediately felt a fire-like breeze of energy. Power is difficult to use but luckily, she would eventually learn how to use it, until then she decided to keep everything a secret. Apprentice was a curious and a mischievous girl but she did have a soft spot for dogs like Cerberus'. She was incredibly unlucky compared to other girls, due to the fact that she is the Underworld's Ruler's daughter. She crept back to her room in stealth and went to sleep. That morning, Apprentice told her father that she wanted to sleep and he shan't disturb her. "Father I am going to my bed chamber to sleep and you may NOT disrupt my peaceful, dreamless slumber." she explained beginning to fake a yawn. "Very well then, I shall not disturb you." Hades said with his usual devilish smirk. Back at her room, Ressie was sleeping quietly and all of a sudden Apprentice bust open the door, panting aggressively. She uncontrollably stuck her hand out. Suddenly, the sphere from before appeared. "You must be careful. I am your guide but once you master the art of The Bident you shall not need me anymore. Your power is great, you just need to unlock it." It bellowed. Apprentice was stunned and couldn't speak. Her jaw nearly dropped to the floor, that's how bewiled she was. It had disappeared by the time she had closed her mouth. The chances of being talked to by a floating sphere are below 0.0001% out of 100% so you can imagine how nail-bitingly weird it was. She finally built up the courage to do it again. The young demon put her hand out in front of her, this time she could control it. Nothing happened..... That was until about 3 seconds later. Ressie howled and disappeared. Once again, her jaw dropped open. She tried to shout but couldn't.

How to draw a cartoon alien by Autumn Morris

Aliens are the easiest things to draw.

Step 1: The body

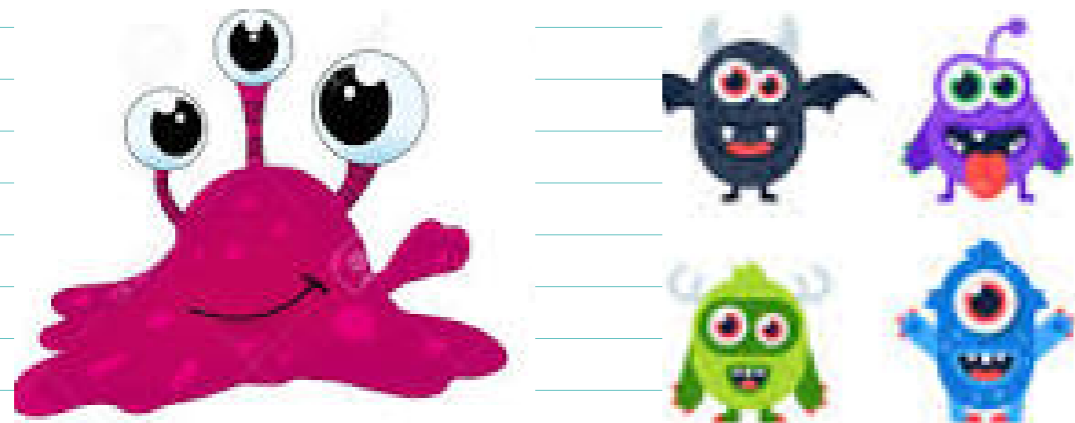

The body is easy. You can always make it your own. First, you need to draw a circle (you can also just use an oval for the body) and add little lines on for some fur. You don't have to use fur if you want.

Step 2: The face

First, you have to draw the eyes. You can have cute eyes or mad eyes. For cut eyes, you need to draw to a circle. In the circles, you need to draw 2 smaller circles and leave them white. Now colour everything apart from the 2 white circles in black. For the mad eyes, you need to draw ovals. Then draw on white 3 white circles. On one of the circles, colour it in red to show anger. Then, colour the rest in black. After you have completed the eyes, you do the eyebrows you only do the eye brows if you are doing a mad alien. For the eyebrows, you draw a diagonal line above the eye. They need to be very dark. To create this effect, you need to press really hard with your pencil. For your mouth, you need to draw a sideways curly C. If you have chose the cute eyes, you don't need a nose. If you have choose the angry eyes, you need to draw 2 little black circles for the nose.

Step 3: The arms and legs

For the arms and legs, you have to draw squiggly lines and little balloons for fingers.

The letter that changed my life! by Holly Taylor

I woke up today wondering 'Where is everyone?'. By the way my name is Mellissa Beck Magic and (since of the name) I am magic. I know you don't believe me but it is true because I just read your mind. My powers are that I am a mind reader and a dog. So back to the beginning.....

I woke up today wondering 'Where is everyone?' because it is my birthday in a few days. I lied in bed for a bit then got up because there was a BANG! "Lila why are ya up!" I heard mother screech.

"Soz' Ma I just wanna hav' a snack!" a reply came from two floors down! It was my sister she is part werewolf part cheater and my mother part lion part dog.

"Keep it doon I am trying to sleep." Said my brother Zack he is an eagle!

"SHUSS Zack I am a-trying to a-read!" cried my twin Kara (part fish part girl (so technically a mermaid)). This is the start of the trouble.

"Well since we are all a-up now....." I started but everyone was a-running down the stairs to dibs the TV!

When I got down stairs – after brushing my hair everyone was watching football "Good morn'ng sweet 'art," said mum, "We are watching football and it is 3-4 to The Birds!" The Birds are mum's favourite because The Birds reminded her of the time when she saw a rare no-one had seen for 30 years!

We had cheerio's for breakfast and water to drink. Just as I grabbed a glass from the cupboard a letter came through the door. Mum shouted from the living room, "Can ya get it for me Mellissa!"

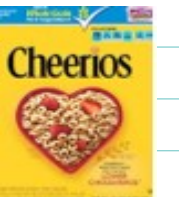

"Fine!" I grumbled. The letter was golden and writing that was red. It said: Top Secret.

I picked it up and ran to give it to h." Aw than....." she stopped when I handed her the peace of paper.

"Mum. What is wrong." I asked worriedly.

"Nothing." She said her face straight and dark.....

The Herald of Vandomia Part 1

There once was a girl called Sandra. She lived on a private island with her posh, rich parents. Sandra had never seen anything beyond the island since her parents were over-protective of her. Her only dream was to explore the open world and more worlds to come.

rocky terrain. "Sandra?" said Alice slightly.

"Holy-" said Sandra but she was interrupted by a sudden angry Alice.

"What were you thinking?" she said, sounding like she was going mad.

"Oh shut up," said Sandra, "you should have been more specific!"

"It was the only lever on the shuttle!"

"Well-"

"What are you going on about?" said an unfamiliar voice.

"What? Who-?" Asked Sandra, puzzled. She looked to her right. It was a boy. Sandra had never seen a boy before since she lived on a private island and the only man she had ever seen was her dad but she didn't talk to her dad much and thought he was quite mysterious. "Oh my-" Sandra said but Alice stopped her again.

"What is it?"

"A - a ummm"

"Come on then, spit it out!"

"A boy, about 20 years old..." Sandra still couldn't believe it. She had been on the space shuttle for 20 years so she didn't know what to say. "Err... Hi" she squeaked.

"Hi," said the boy, wondering why Sandra looked like everyone in the universe had been wiped.

"W- what are you doing on Vando..0+ mia?" asked Sandra in the most clueless way possible.

"I was about to say the same thing" joked the boy. For a few embarrassing moments, they stared at each other.

"Say something!" Alice whispered through the headset.

"I've never spoke to a boy before!" Sandra answered.

"I can hear you ,you know." The boy said, "C'mon, I need your help with something.

"But-" said Sandra but the boy was already walking away.

Vandomia, 2043:

"Bring her in." said the voice from the palace again. Guards scurried into the Heralds room holding a girl about 15 years old by her arms and legs. "Wrong girl," the Herald said, slapping her forehead. "The name's Sandra. Lives on a space shuttle.

"But we don't know where she is," said one of the guards weakly.

"Come on Gerald, just look for a space shuttle!"

"But-"

"NO BUTS!" shouted the Herald. Gerald was trying hard not to laugh. "I AM YOUR HERALD! THE HERALD OF VANDOMIA!" the Herald of Vandomia coughed. "Now, go and get the girl."

"Yes madam..."

"And don't call me madam!"

Why did I start playing football? By Lewis Sherrard

It all started when I was 3, and my dad started teaching me this sport. I started with the basics, (passing, shooting, dribbling and defence) It was actually kind of fun! Then when I was 5 years old, my dad started taking me to training down the big school; the people were really nice! I made some friends, lost some friends but I still had a good time.

Now I'm 11?

Now I'm 11, I am having the best time I've ever had ,except from school, like playing with friends, chit chat, making people laugh (sometimes) and games everyone's playing on Xbox or PlayStation.

Liz picked up the light brown bunny with white specks and blue eyes. Its white tail was fluffy. The little round blue eyes stared up at her and she new the bunny was in danger .

Liz went and told her other veterinarian friends and they thought she was crazy but she knew she had to help the little fellow who she named Bruno. Bruno the rabbit.

The day in the life of a football fan by Ashton Sheeran

Yes, we may have lost in the final but it was an amazing experience for those who went down to London.

I woke up around 6:30AM on Saturday morning (25th February) and had my breakfast. At 8AM, me and my Dad got in the car and set off for London. Would we win? Would we lose? Thoughts were racing around our head on that long drive down. At 2PM, we arrived at Luton Airport Parkway and we parked up. We went in bought a ticket and got on the train. We arrived at St Pancras and went into the London underground. After 10-15 minutes, we arrived at Aldgate where our hotel was located. We were right next to Tower bridge and The Tower of London. We stayed in the room for a bit until we saw on Twitter that Newcastle fans were starting to build up at Trafalgar square. At 5PM we had our tea and went to Leicester square on the London underground. The atmosphere was amazing. There were pyros, flags and people singing. "We've got Bruno in the middle, he knows exactly what we need, Botman at the back, Isak in attack, Newcastle's gonna win the Premier League," rang out around London all weekend. After about an hour, we went back to the hotel and went to sleep ready for the final at Wembley. We woke up early on Sunday 26th February and got ready for Wembley. We ate our breakfast and got on the train to Wembley Stadium. We arrived around 11AM. We got off the train and slowly walked up Wembley way making memories that I would never forget. We had about 3 hours to kill so we went to a Mexican food shop and we ate some nachos. After that we walked up the stairs and waited for the turnstiles to open. We were so excited. The Turnstiles finally opened and we went up the escalators to the top. As we walked out, we were amazed as how high up we were. Even after 5 seconds of looking down I felt dizzy.

An hour later, the game kicked off. When Casemiro scored a header, it drained us of our energy but we still kept on pushing for an equaliser. Then, Sven Botman scored an unfortunate own goal which Loris Karius couldn't possibly save. At full time, we left disappointed but Proud. From being in a relegation battle the season before to being in a Carabao cup final. Wow, what a journey. We got the train back to the hotel and went to sleep after eating a Greek kebab.

The next day, we got on a train back to Luton and got in our car. We drove away from Luton and listened to music on the way back. During the drive home, we stopped at Tibshelf services in Leeds and waited outside of KFC for some food. Out the corner of my eye I recognised someone. Bruno G's dad! The man who inspired his famous number 39 on the back of his shirt. Finally we got back home and thought about the time we had in London

Weight Spells

Weight spells affect the force of gravity and either spin you around or move you through the air at an accelerated rate. These spells are Levioso, Arresto Momentum, Glacius and Transformation. Levioso is a spell that levitates objects and enemies; it can also be used to break spells and gain extra powers on your enemy. Also, there is Arresto Momentum which slows down time objects or enemies creating a huge way to finish your opponent. Next, there is Glacius which freezes your enemy and increases follow up damage; when they are frozen, you can use a fire spell to deal x2 damage to them. The final weight spell is transformation which transforms objects and enemies into alternate forms. This can be useful but also annoying because someone can turn you into a ghost making you un-killable.

Force spells

Force spells affect your movement and can control you into hitting yourself. These spells are Accio, Depulso, Descendo and Flipendo. Accio is a force spell that pulls objects and enemies towards you and can be used for certain puzzles in Hogwarts Legacy. For example, in Blackbeards [an NPC] quests you need to use Accio to drag metal blades into the correct place. Then, there is Depulso which can be used to drag enemies to the ground dealing a ton of damage to the enemy or to break people's protective spells. It can also be used to create combos. After that, there is Descendo which instantly slams your opponent to the ground dealing a lot of damage. Also, it can break every protective spell in the game but it cannot be used to break trolls and bosses shield. This is because they are too strong to feel the force of Descendo. To finish off the force spells, there is Flipendo which is used to flip the enemy off their feet; this gives an advantage because you can land free hits on your enemy. Adding to this, it gets rid of your enemy's weapon for 2 seconds making them vulnerable to your attacks.

It is the only 0-0-0 tower that can pop leads; these bloons can only be popped by an explosion only and flames but no 0-0-0 tower has fire ability. The dart monkeys shoot out darts and cost 170 coins and the darts can be upgraded to balls of spikes or balls of plasma if you go middle path and top is the spike ball.

The boomerang monkey shoots out boomerangs that pop bloons and the middle path makes so that it's the fastest tower that shoots and the top path makes it so that it has glaives instead of boomerangs and glaives ricochet makes it bounce from bloon to bloon. The Tack Shooter is a tower that shoots tacks to the top path is a circle of fire every bloon that just burn up and bottom path.
